Only a few days ago New-York was declared to be depressingly empty. To-day it is so full tha already Delmonico's and the winter garden in the Waldorf are so crowded nightly with returning people of the fashionable world that a table or a oom in a well-known hotel is a difficult thing to find. Those members of society who are independent enough to enjoy bright sunshine and hon forts in town are making the most of the theatres, and if their taste runs in the direction of shopping and spending money there is every opportunity of exercising it by the purchase of wedding

For the next few weeks Tuxedo, Cedarhurst, Meadowbrook, Westchester, Orange, Staten Island and the upper Hudson will have a monopoly of the various social clans, and a few prominent families having luxurious homes in Newport and Lenox will stay where they are until they are driver the first cold blasts of winter. The birds of passage to whom change of air and change of cene every few months are indispensable are siready establishing themselves in quarters near me. Like the brook, enjoyment at Tuxedo Park seems to go on forever, and of all the suburban clubs. Tuxedo appears to be the most prosperous As an instance of its flourishing condition it may mentioned that the receipts in the clubbo last month amounted to considerably over $5,000. A better season than the present Tuxedo probably Nearly every cottage in the park is oced, while the clubhouse is just now sheltering as many people as can be comfortably accommo-dated. A few days ago it was found absolutely necessary to open the Children's Annex for people with and without children. It is not at all likely that there will be any coaching this autumn between New-York and Tuxedo, not because of a lack of funds, but owing to the scarcity of desirable whips, Pigeon shooting has begun and many are the dirsions enjoyed by the cottagers and guests at the clubhouse. The annual ball is fixed for Thursday, November 2. Mr and Mrs. George Barclay, Mrs. Samuel Colgate and Lady Lister-Kaye are among the recent arrivals, and before the end of the month Mr. and Mrs. T. Suffern Tailer, who have travelling in foreign lands since their marriage, eighteen months ago, will have arrived from Europe to take possession of their pretty new cottage, which has just been completed and which is a wedding gift from Mrs. Tailer's father, Pierre Lorillard.

Every steamer that reaches this port between the present time and the end of the month will bring detachment of Mr. Abbey's stock of singing birds. The season of Italian opera is announced to begin on the evening of November 19, when the horserow of boxes and stalls in the auditorium of the Metropolitan Opera House will probably present a more than usually brilliant appearance. All the old frequenters will be seen in their accustomed places. Managers promise an unusually large and places standard varied repertoire, and several operas with so-called ideal casts, including Flotow's "Martha," with Mme. Nordica as the fun-loving Lady Henrietta and Mme. Scalchi and the De Reszke brothers in the other principal parts.

The several weddings in town last week were quiet affairs. That of Miss Hildegarde Speyers and James Hillhouse, on Tuesday afternoon, in the Church of the Ascension, was the occasion for a great outpouring of the young friends of the pair. here was no reception. The prestiest home wedding of the week was that of Miss Josephine Nor-wood and Joel Rathbone, of Aleany, which was celebrated on Wednesday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carlisle Norwood, No. 14 West Forty-seventh-st. The guests at the ceremony and reception were either relatives or intimate friends. Miss Norwood made a handsome bride, and looked extremely happy in her simpl gown of white satin, made without embellishment of any kind. The reception was rather gay; a pleasant incident, just before its close and as the bride was about to retire to prepare herself for the wedding journey, was the singing by the ushers of several popular songs, including the ever-present "Sweet Marie." Mr. Rathbone and his bride will live in Albany, where they will occupy a house in State-st., a short distance from the Capitol building, which has been completely furnished by Mr. and Mrs. Norwood. The wedding of Miss Char-Hunnewell, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Hunnewell, of Boston, to Victor Sorchon, of this city, took place on Thursday in All Saints' Memorial Chapel, Newport, All Newport came together to do the bride honor, and friends from New-York, Boston, Washington, Philadelphia and Baltimore fairly exhausted both bride and bridegroom with their congratulations and good wishes. bride's gown was, as usual, of white satin and point lace, with no jewels. The bridesmails, Miss Elsie Bronson, Miss, Emily Tooker, Miss Edith Cushing and Misc Elizabeth Slade, were attired in gowns of white silk and short white vells. Each carried a white-bound prayer-book, a gift from the bride. After the wedding breakfast Mr. and Mrs. Sorchon sailed away in J. Nichols Brown's steam had been placed at their disposal.

Engagements and wedding announcements are coming in as rapidly as cards for 4 o'clock teas will be doing a month or two hence. The en-gagement of Miss Grace Sanders, eldest daughter Dr. Charles W. Sanders, of No. 53 East Fiftythird-st., to John H. Macy, jr., was announced few days ago. JUDGE GAYNOR'S DECLINATION.

DISPOSED TO BE SARCASTIC.

From The Evening Sun. Judge William Jerusalem's My-Home Gaynor says in his letter declining the Democratic nomination: "My hand and my heart go out to them." What a dreadfully unpleasant physiological experience!

WHAT A PECK OF TROUBLE!

Gaynor declines with thanks; Goff bluntly re-fuses any overtures from the enemy, and Grace stands alone wavering between mercy and peace. Hill turns in desperation to Grover Cleveland's friends and followers for help. And they will help— to sink him deeper in the hole. From The Mail and Express.

NOT A SURPRISE.

From The Evening World. From The Evening World.

The Judge's action has taken no one by surprise. It was not expected that he would accept, and it was inexpedient to nominate him. Judge Gaynor is understood to prefer political life to a seat on the bench. He would no doubt have accepted the nomination for Governor. But it was not likely that he would change his present office with a fourteen years' term for one with less compensation and very little more honor.

A SEVERE BLOW.

From The New-York Times. Judge Gaynor's declination is a blow to the Democratic ticket from which it can recover only by inducing some stronger man to take the vacant place—and Judge Gaynor undoubtedly is, or was, very strong with the people.

COMING FOR THE OPERA.

ARRIVALS YESTERDAY ON THE NEW- THE FIRST IMPORTANT GAME HERE-YORK.

SOME EATHER LOOSE PLAYING, NATURAL AT WHAT MR. ABBEY HAS TO SAY OF HIS MANY

PLANS. The steamer New-York got the full violence of the storm which the city of New-York waited for so long in vain. She came into port safely, how ever, yesterday morning. Among her passengers were Henry E. Abbey, Mme. Melba and Mme. Scalchi. They all confessed frankly that they had been deathly sick. After they had said that they had other things to say, but they all seemed to regard that as the most important.

This subject being settled, Mr. Abbey said that he and Mr. Grau had now concluded one engagement which made their opera company complete. He referred, of course, to the engagement of Mm Lillian Nordica, which was reported here by cable "The opera season at the Metrosome weeks ago. "The opera season at the Metro-politan," said Mr. Abbey, "will open on November with 'Romeo and Juliet.' The cast will include Mme. Melba, Jean and Edouard de Reszké and M. Plancon. The De Reszkés will sail for this country about November 3, and so will Mr. Grau. Mme Earnes will not sail till November 17, as she does not have to appear in any of the first few perormances. Miss Sanderson will not come till about January 1, as she has an engagement at the Opéra Comique which will hold her till nearly that time. Tamagno will probably arrive here to-morrow on Tamagno will probably arrive here to-morrow on his way to Mexico, where he is to make a concert tour before he comes back for the opera season. He will give twelve performances there. Mile. Calvé will not come this year. 'Falstaff will be given about the third week of the season. 'Carmen' is to be done with an ideal cast, including Zellie de Lussan, who will sing Carmen, Mine. Melbe, and Jean and Edouard de Reszké. "Miss Lillian Russell is to end her engagement in London on October 18, and she will sail for America on the 20th. She will open at Abbey's Theatre on November 5 in 'The Queen of Brilliants,' which will have a new book by H. J. W. Dam. In the course of her engagement she will probably give a revival of 'The Grand Duchess.' Affer it is over she will make a tour. Mme. Bernhardt was to begin an engagement at Abbey's Theatre in February, but her arrangements for Theatre in February, but her arrangements of Athens,' in Paris, will prevent her coming to America this season. She will therefore not appear here till January, 1898.

"We are most occupied just now with the arrangements for Mme. Melba's concert tour, which will here here on Wednesday. After two concerts America this season. She will therefore not appear here till January, 1896.

"We are most occupied just now with the arrangements for Mme, Melba's concert tour, which will begin here on Wednesday. After two concerts here, and one in Brooklyn, Mme, Melba will visit Buffalo, Philadelphia, Hoston, Worcester, Hoston again, New-York, possibly, for a Sunday concert; Hartford, Baitimore, New-Haven, Washington, Toronto and Montreal. It will be time then to come back for the opera season.

"The Drury Lane pantomime will be brought here next summer, and will open at the Metropolitan Opera House about the last of August or the first of September. There will be time to give it a good run, as the opera season next year will begin unusually late."

Mme, Melba was to be found at the Savoy Hotel yesterday. After she had told how sick she was all the way coming over, she said that she was to sing in "Lakme." "Othello." "The Hugenots, "Carmen," and "Romeo and Juliet." She said also that she had been studying German, and was going to sing a little something in German at some of her concerts.

Mr. Conried is trying not only to win but to deserve success at the Irving Place Theatre. It is his to produce a novelty every week, a purmanager at one of the theatres in which English

His last production is a new comedy by Blumenthal and Kadal, being called "Mauerblumchen," which, in the vernacular, is rendered "Wallflower," and in the intellectual economy of the piece regardleth the maiden who remains in the mairimonial market after it is closed. In the case of this comedy, however, the flower is not left blooming alone, but is carried off to gladden the house of the lover of the piece in a manner sanctioned by the tradition of ages. The elements of the comedy are old, very old, but they are combined with great ingenuity, and the play is full of brightness and grace from end to end. And it is extremely well acted in all its parts.

DR. JEKYLL AND MR. HYDE Richard Mansfield appeared at the Herald Square

Theatre last night in his thrilling stage version of Mr. Stevenson's novel, "Dr Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" The play long ago became thoroughly familiar, but was always one of the favorites of Mr. Mansfield's repertory, and it is so still. His two impersonations in it are likely to be which he has originated, as far as the tual presence on the stage was concerned. The realization of Hyde is the realization of an im petures, but that of Dr. Joshy, as a constraint lastingly impressive. There are many moments of pure poetry in Mr. Mansfield's acting of this fine character. One is when he walks out under the stars, hand in nand with Agnes Carew, forgetting for a moment in her presence the horrinde secret that is so soon to part them. Another is when the doctor's friends natter at his door at night, seeking for the hundel Hyde, and as it opened Jekyll stands before them, had but werene, budding the land above his head. MUSHROOM PARTIES IN VOGUE, Mushroom parties are the rage at this season, and the woods and meadows around the city are invaded before the morning dew is gone by merry parties seeking this toothsome fungus. One very necessary element in these parties is perfect faithin one member as a judge of what constitutes a mushroom and what a toudstool. When a sufficient quantity is gathered the party adjourns to a selected home where the mushrooms are cooked and discussed, and any after qualms or aches are chirged up to early rising or dyspepsia, but never to the possibility of poisening.

The first game in the vicinity of New-York among the important football teams was played yesterday at Eastern Park, Brooklyn. So early in the season no one could expect to see any very complete football playing, but the spectators did expect to see better work than the Yale eleven exhibited in its game with the Crescent Athletic Club team. There were, of course, reasons for this lax play on the wife, of course, reasons for this lax play on the line of course, reasons for the li part of Yale, the principal one being that every man on the team was a substitute except Stillman at centre and Hickok at guard. Another reason was that the umpire and lineman did not use their authority to the extent they should have, and some of the time lost in rough play might otherwise have turn out for the first Brooklyn game of the season in good numbers, there were several well-known faces. On the side lines were "Billy" Buil, the old Yale fullback; Butterworth, Yale's fullback last year, and probably the man who will fill that posi-tion this year, too; Willis Terry, one of Yale's standbys; Morse, the stocky player of last year's and this year's Princeton eleven, and Lewis, year's Harvar'l centre-rush. Captain Hinkey, Mc Crea, Greenway, Thorn and several other men who will be members of the Yale team this year were on the side lines, too, in their football clothes, but none of them played. Hinkey lay on the ground close to the chalk line, watching his men closely, but he seemed to be as little inclined to say anything as the field, and a moment later the Crescents won the toss and took the north end of the field. That gave the ball to Yale. It was kicked off by De Witt and went out of bounds. This was repeated, with the evident purpose on Yale's part to give up the ball, according to the rules, after two misses, and this seems on the whole the wisest plan. The side kicking off is obliged to send the ball at least ten yards, and under such a rule, if you give the ball receive it down the field, have plenty of tim return it, and have your men under it, also. It seems to be a disadvantage, therefore, to have the kick-off; at least, so the Yale men thought the kick-off; at least, so the Yale men thought yesterday. Having lost the ball on default, the Crescents kicked off, and it was returned by Litton. The Crescents then pushed the play well down to Yale's goal line, as far as the four-yard line, in fact, within ten minutes. The ball then went to Yale on an offside play, and a little later they got ten yards on more offside play. After a few unsuccessful attempts to gain ground, Goelet took the ball and ran a good sixty yards to the Crescents' fitteen-yard line, and a few moments later he scored a touchdown, from which Litton kicked a goal. The Crescents then tried rushing up the field, but the ball stayed in their territory for the rest of the half. Time was called after twenty-five minutes of actual play. If the rescents had kicked more they would have gained by it, because the two times they did kick in ...e first half the ball was muffed and they gained for the property of the rest of the half. HARVARD'S MISFORTUNES. Another is THEY ARE ADDED TO BY THE LOSS OF GRAY, WHO BROKE HIS LEG IN THE ANDOVER

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 6 (Special)—Harvard beat Andover to-day in a wretched exhibition. The score was 44 to 0, virtually the same as that against Exeter, as in each game Harvard scored eight touchdowns. If anybody has hitherto had any doubts as to whether Harvard had a poor to-day in a wretched exhibition. The score was 44 to 0, virtually the same as that against Exeter, as in each game Harvard scored eight touchdowns. If anybody has hitherto had any doubts as to whether Harvard had a poor team, these doubts were dispelled by this game. Yale would have had no difficulty in beating Parvard 2s to 0. Some idea of Harvard's strength can be had from the fact that the Crimson scored only twenty-two more points than Worcester Academy, a preparatory school, made against Andover two weeks ago. Harvard's best backs, Brewer and Wrightington, were unable to play on account of lame legs. In blocking off for a long run in the first half, George Gray, the only remaining stay behind the line, broke his left leg just above the ankle. This accident is every bit as unfortunated as that to Captain Emmons, for Gray was sure to have been one of the halfbacks against Yale, Gray broke his wrist and aprained his ankle last year. In place of the starbacks, Donlop, Hayes and Manning were played, both Hayes and Manning were played. SMALL SCORE FOR PRINCETON. LEHIGH HELD THE TIGERS DOWN TO A TOUCH. DOWN IN EACH HALF-A LOOSELY PLAYED GAME.

South Bethlehem, Penn., Oct. 6 (Special).-After hard work, Princeton defeated Lehigh here this afternoon by a score of 8 to 0. The Princeton men came fully expecting to win by 29 points and were greatly surprised at the good work of the Lebigh team. Both teams fumbled and often missed sure tackles. Princeton scored her points by kicking the ball to Lehigh's goal and then getting possession of ball to Lengus goal and then getting possession, it on a fumble. Twice this was done, once in the first half, when Ward scored a touchdown, and in the second half, when McCormick carried the ball across the line. Princeton could gain ground only by her backs against Becerra, who was playing right guard with his right hand done up in splinis. "Phil" King expressed his opinion to the effect that with a little more interference Lehigh would defeat with a little more interference Lehigh would der Pennsylvania on the 17th. The teams lined up

RUTGERS, 12; LAFAYETTE, 10.

Rutgers outplayed Lafayette yesterday at New-Brunswick and won by a score of 12 to 19. This was the first game of the Middle States League. The Lafayette men far outweighed the Rutgers team, but by quick playing Rutgers seemed to have no trouble in breaking through their line. The game, though hard, was without accidents, no substitutes being played. Gabe Ludlow made a touchdown for Rutgers in the first three minutes a fouchdown for Ruigers in the first three minutes after a run of fifty yards. Barciay made a touchdown for Lafayette after a series of runs around the ends. In the second half Lafayette scored by a bad fumble near Ruigers goal. Ruigers then bucked their opponents line the entire length of the field, making the winning goal. Gabe Ludlow, Denise, Van byck and G. S. Ludlow did the best work for Ruigers, and Barclay and Walbridge for Lafayette.

In speaking of the recent yacht races on the other side Mr. Gould said:

I still believe, however, that she is the fastest boat afloat on an outside course. I took the yacht to England to enter her in the principal races there purely for sport. When I found that most of the courses over which we would be obliged to sail were land-locked, I knew that the boat would not make as favorable a showing as I had expected. We were treated with every courtesy by the members of the Royal Yacht Squadron, and by the members of other clubs. I have nothing to complain of on that point. The Britannia is quicker in stays than the Vigilant, and this, of course, gave her a great advantage in races over the inside course, where there were frequent turns. She has a crew on board of her who are thoroughly familiar with the boat, and in a splendid state of discipline.

Mr. Gould denied emphatically the reports of the engagement of his sester, Miss Anna Gould.
Captain W. S. Shackford, of Mr. Gould's steam yacht Atalanta, was also a passenger on the New-York. The Atalanta is aid up for the winter at Southampton. She will go into commission again next February. Captain Shackford said he had a most enjoyable time in British waters, and was treated with the utmost kindness by all with whom he came in contact. The Prince of Wales visited the Atalanta at Cowes, and was greatly pleased with her. The boat is said to be the first American-built steam yacht on board of which the Prince has ever been.

Fenn, treasurer of the company, arrived here from Cleveland, and proceeded to make a personal examination of Mapex's accounts. Some entries aroused suspicion, and the cashier was asked for an explanation. He went to an adjoining office, apparently to get some records, but failed to return. The absence of Mapes impelied Mr. Fenn to make a more careful examination, and a serious shortage was discovered.

Mapes was twenty-eight years old, and was brought up in Cleveland, Ohio, where his parents now live. He was married seven years ago to a Miss Darby.
